Willing Workers Meet.

The Willing Workers Society met with Mrs. Virginia Garrett at the Montessori school building and carried out a very interesting program this week. A large number were present, including five visitors. Several committees were appointed and plans laid for future work. A very informal talk over the tea-cups was splendid by Mrs. Boynton on the subject of "The Responsibility of Church Members to the Church and to the World," using the three-fold object of the society as a basis for remarks—spiritual, social and financial.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. John Buckingham on Walnut street the third Tuesday in February.

Social Center Meeting.

The Mothers' Club of Northview held a joint meeting with the teachers in the school auditorium recently. The early part of the afternoon was spent in visiting and inspecting the work in the various rooms and in the business affairs of the club. At 3 o'clock the pupils were dismissed.

Proper Way to Keep Your Hair In Curl

If you want your hair to grow and thrive don't curl it with a hot iron. The regular use of this hair dressing instrument is bound to keep the hair dried and parched looking, with broken, uneven ends. It's a lot more sensible to adopt the simple silmerine method, which will not interfere in the least with the growth and health of the hair. Moreover, it means a far more beautiful curly and wavy effect, with no evidence of having been artificially acquired.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine—which can be found in any drug store—will last a long time. Just try a little of this harmless liquid tonight. Dip a clean tooth brush into it and draw this down the full length of the hair. Silmerine, by the way, is neither sticky nor greasy; you will be simply delighted with it.

of Miss Lillie Koblegard on East Main street from 3 to 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Upon the arrival of the guests a salad course was served in the dining room, where roses and narcissus were used in the floral decorations. Later progressive euchre was played at five tables, which were very pleasantly arranged in the large eastern parlors and with the attractive afternoon costumes of the women and girls presented a brilliant and cheery scene from the lowering clouds without.

TESTS

Of Road Building Material in This State Are to Be Made by Mr. Arthur.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM.) MORGANTOWN, Jan. 20.—Extensive tests of road building material in the state of West Virginia are to be made according to an announcement from the state road bureau. The tests of the shales, clays, sands and stones in different parts of the state are to be made by G. B. Arthur, of Pittsburgh, Pa., in conjunction with the Louis Institute of Chicago and the state road bureau.

Mr. Arthur's headquarters will be in Pittsburgh where all the tests of specimens collected are to be made. Mr. Arthur will devote most of his attention to a survey of concrete aggregate with the idea in view of determining just what materials are the best to use under certain conditions and for different kinds of roads.

A study of the shales and clays of the state will be made in connection with the geological survey of the United States bureau of standards, National Paving Brick Manufacturers' Association and the American Ceramic Association. According to Dr. I. C. White, who spoke before the good roads school, West Virginia is richly endowed in brick making material but that this particular industry was not being developed as it should be.

FARMERS' MEETING.

A meeting of farmers will be held in Clarksburg at the court house at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. It is especially desired that a good attendance of farmers may be had at this meeting. County Agent W. D. Zinn wants to discuss club and demonstration work, fertilizers, manures and the feeding of live stock. About forty-five Harrison county farmers attended the short course at Morgantown, January 3 to 8 and he would like to have these farmers report on this meeting.

Thousands of Jews in Russia Receive Aid from Committee of Their People.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 22.—None of the voluntary relief organizations at work with the war refugees has gone about its task with greater skill than the Jewish, whose central committee is in this city. According to its information 250,000 Jewish residents of the territory now occupied by the Germans and Austrians were sent away by the military authorities and 200,000 left voluntarily.

There are now 170,000 Jews receiving help from the Jewish committee and there number is growing, scanty financial resources having helped many to keep their feet up to the present. When the movement began parties of men and women were sent westwards to direct the exodus. These parties included a business manager, a physician, a nurse and often a fourth woman whose duties were to guide and guard unprotected women and girls. The incoming trains were met by local committees.

Employment agencies have been opened in thirty-one cities and ten workshops have been equipped. The greatest and most useful help, however, has been afforded in the extension of credit through co-operative loan societies. The central committee guarantees these societies fifty per cent of their losses. Seventeen agencies for such financial relief have been opened in southern and eastern provinces.

Asylums and schools for children have been opened wherever refugees have congregated, likewise hospitals, infirmaries and homes for aged and infirm. The committee has already disbursed eight million roubles, of which the government supplied 1,500,000. No financial assistance has been solicited from abroad and practically none has been received. It is the belief of the central committee that if allowed the freedom of residence the Jewish refugees in central and eastern Russia will recover comparatively quickly from the disaster that has overtaken them. For military reasons such undisturbed residence has not everywhere been possible. Five thousand Jews that had settled in Poltava, under orders of course, were later required to remove elsewhere. A few hundred have lately been dislodged in the same manner from certain westerly districts of Petrograd province.

RELIEF DAY

For Millions of Suffering Jews is Duly Proclaimed by President Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—In response to the senate resolution requesting him to do so, President Wilson has issued a proclamation designating January 27 as a day upon which Americans may make contributions for the relief of suffering Jews in Europe.

The president's proclamation recites the resolution, which says that 9,000,000 Jews are in the warring countries, that the great majority of them are destitute of food, shelter, and clothing, and that millions of them have been driven from their homes, and continues:

"And whereas, I feel confident that the people of the United States will be moved to aid the war-stricken people of a race which has given to the United States so many worthy citizens.

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, in compliance with the suggestion of the senate thereof, do appoint and proclaim January 27, 1916, as a day upon which the people of the United States may make such contributions as they feel disposed for the aid of the stricken Jewish people."

TO STUDY

Road Conditions in West Virginia is Sweetser, Government Expert on Roads.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM.) MORGANTOWN, Jan. 20.—By an arrangement just made by state Road Engineer A. D. Williams of the State Road Bureau; C. H. Sweetser, senior highway engineer of the United States Department of Public Roads, will spend two or three months in this state for the purpose of studying the road conditions in the various counties. Mr. Sweetser will also devote part of his time to imparting information relative to the proper method of issuing road bonds as well as all other information bearing on the construction and location of highways.

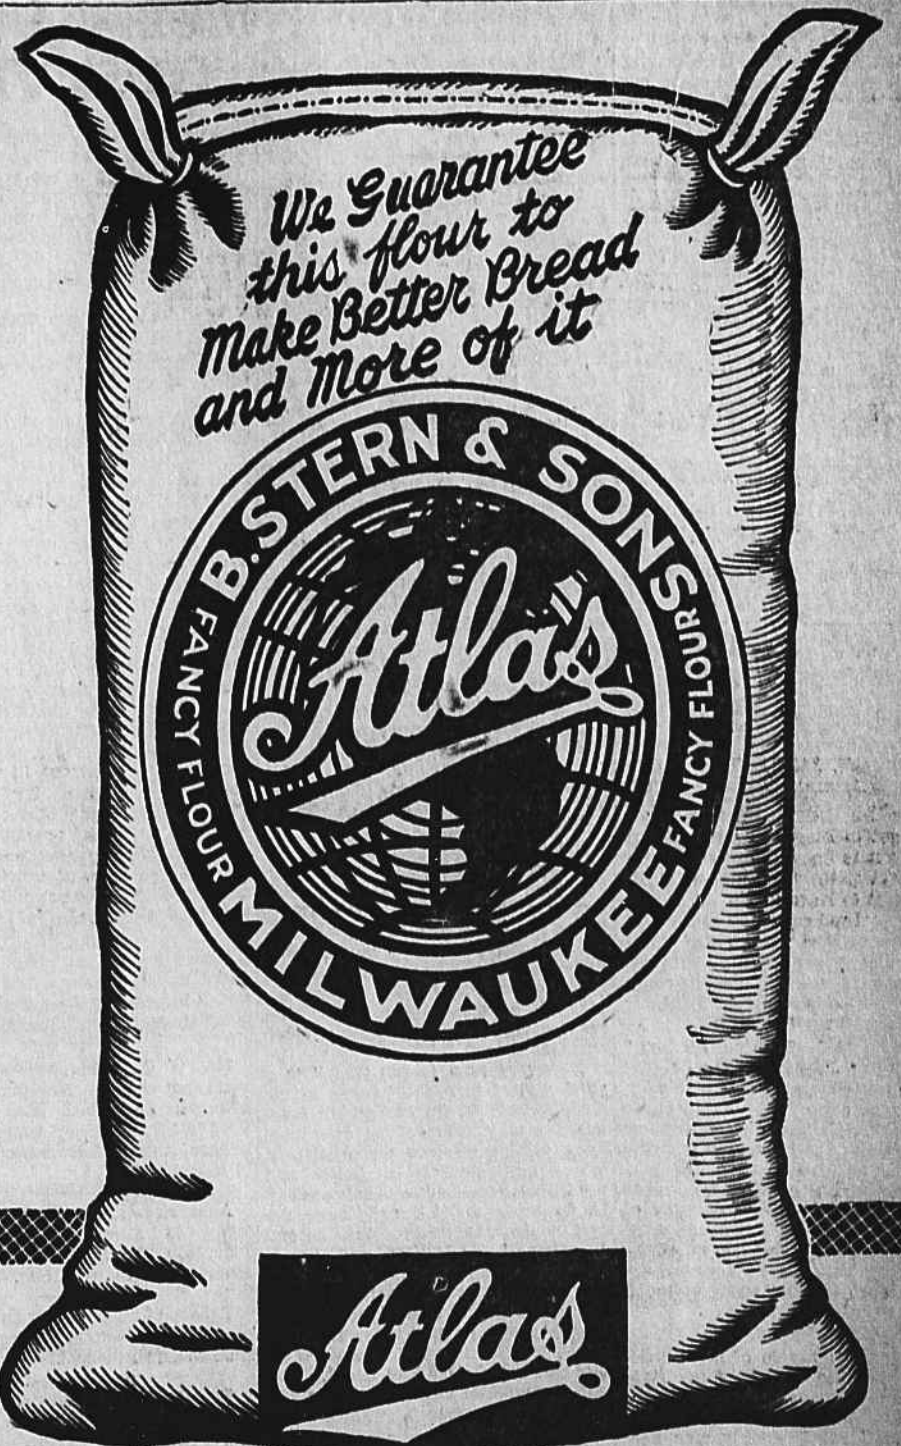

Mr. Sweetser arrived from Washington, D. C., today and is now making preparations for a short trip through the central part of the state. He will spend the first week or so in Buchanan district, Upshur county, where an election on the issuance of road bonds will be held in the near future. He will then go to Greenbrier county and then to Preston county, where three districts are preparing to hold bond issue elections. He will work in conjunction with the road headquarters in this city.

COUNTIES

Should Be Made the Taxing Unit in the Issuance of Road Bonds.

MORGANTOWN, Jan. 20.—That the counties of the state should be made the taxing unit in the issuance of road bonds instead of districts was the decision reached this week at the third annual Good Roads school. There has always been a difference of opinion as to whether certain districts of a county should take care of its own roads in the way of construction and maintenance or whether the county should have direct supervision but it was proved here that the latter method is the best. In several places in the state it has been held that road construction has been retarded as in several districts the limit indebtedness has been reached and as a result no bonds can be issued. Then too if a certain district suffers damage from flood, etc., it is impossible for it to assume an indebtedness where there has been a big depreciation in property values. In the sections of the state where the county has been made the taxing unit instead of the district, the plan has worked well, particularly in the southern part of West Virginia.
